Man of Influence Who Denies God Is Unfaithful to His Age, Evangelist Says.

Dr. Charles Reign Scoville pleaded for church members to do personal work o win souls to Christ in his sermon on "Fishers of Men" to a huge audience at the tent tabernacle last night.

"Jesus was the champion soul winner," he declared. "Be like him. He said, "Follow me and I will make you fishers of men."

Weather Does Not Deter.

Although the air was crisp, the evangelist with his characteristic slashes at hypocrites, unbelievers, knockers and sinners generally, and his dramatic way of telling stories, held the attention of the crowd from beginning to end. He again forced tears and smiles in rapid succession and at times fairly raised his hearers from their seats as he earnestly described some happening to drive home a point.

The Christian church delegation, a big out-of-town contingent from Pickering nearly a thousand new faces and a song service that was the warmest of the campaign to date, stirred the evangelist. There were hundreds in the crowd from the rural districts around Maryville, and this, too, served to put him on his mettle.

"The secret of soul winning is to follow Jesus," he said in opening. "If a soul is not won, it is lost. If it is won it goes to heaven, if lost it goes to hell.

"It's heaven or hell, one or the other, not heaven or hell or something else. Don't let anyone make you believe there is any third way in contemplating eternity.

Christians Must Save Others.

"You folks who are saved must save others. You have to go out and bring them in here. A buck deer will not walk up the street and let you shoot at him, a flock of quails will not deliberately fly in range; a fish won't bite if he sees you after him.

"You must put yourself out of sight and let God work through you to win men and women. Some men never go to church. They go to their places of business on Sunday instead working on their books. Well, they will be straightening up their books in eternity, too. They'll go to hell.

"Others go around and never take their wives out of the door yard. The wife narrows to a dishpan. That kind of a man ought to live with a cow."

In the midst of a bombardment on hypocrites, he paused and lowering his

Scoville Sayings

Pay your debts, then you can save souls.

If a woman of influence in this city hasn't God uppermost the devil has her.

Any jackass can knock God; it takes a man to confess him.

Certain Maryville men will be converted here or be forever lost.

Six days a week for work; one day with God is better than seven days' work without God.

Some men make their wives narrow to a dishpan and door yard. Such men ought to live with a cow.

Will a buck deer run down the streets of Maryville so you can shoot him? No! Well, you've got to go after the souls, too.

My tongue felt like it was tied in a knot and thrown down my throat the first time I talked with God, but I kept on talking.

I wish every drunkard could be saved.

A preacher who didn't believe in revivals ruined Aaron Burr. That kind of a preacher is a disgrace. He is in league with hell.

You are a fool to trifle with your immortal interests.

Jesus was the champion soul winner. He said: "Follow me and I will make you Fishers of Men."

'TIS PARTIES' DAY

REPUBLICANS AND DEMOCRATS CELEBRATE AT HOPKINS.

CANDIDATES ON HAND

Booher and Geiger Speakers at Festivity—Carnival Day Scheduled for Tomorrow.

A gathering of Democrat and Republican clans was held at Hopkins today when the principal speakers were Congressman Charles F. Booher, Judge John M. Dawson, Democratic candidate for circuit judge, and Dr. Jacob Geiger, Republican candidate for congressman.

Judge Dawson was chairman of the meeting, which was held in connection with the three days' picnic, one of the annual fall affairs of Hopkins. A big crowd was on hand to listen to the speakers and to take in the various free attractions.

An agricultural display, at which are exhibited some of the finest farm products of which Nodaway county can boast, is attracting attention and admiration. This display is in charge of M. J. Sheley. People from all sections of the county have attended the fair which is being held in the town park.

Tomorrow is Carnival Day and all serious entertainment will give place to a free-for-all good time. The various awards in the agricultural exhibit will also be made tomorrow.

FROST MAKES FIRST VISIT

Low Temperature and North Winds Makes Nodaway County Shiver Last Night.

A slight frost, the first of the season, was prevalent last night in all sections of the county.

A minimum temperature of 36, accompanied by brisk north winds, made the frost strike uplands and lowlands alike, but with no blighting effect, however.

In no section was the immature corn blighted, only the late garden stuff showing any signs of the frost damage.

EDITORS ATTEND STATE MEET.

Golden Jubilee Session of Missouri Newspaper Men Being Held.

James Todd, editor of The Democrat-Forum, and J. F. Hull, editor of The Tribune, left last night for Kansas City to attend the annual meeting of the Missouri Press association, in session at the Muehlebach hotel in that city.

The session is the golden jubilee one and the most interesting in the history of the organization.

L. C. Gooden, editor of the Parnell Sentinel, left this morning for Kansas City to attend the convention.

A NEW ASSOCIATION

HIGH SCHOOL STUDENTS ORGANIZE TO BOOST ATHLETICS.

GIRLS INCLUDED, ALSO

Martin Lewis Heads Members, and Lillian Carpenter Is Secretary—Executive Committee Selected.

At a meeting of the student body of the high school yesterday afternoon it was decided that an athletic association should be formed consisting of the entire student body, both boys and girls. The association already existing was composed only of boys. As much of the support of athletics comes from the girls, it was considered only fair that they should have some part in their management.

It is expected that the new association will follow closely along the lines of the old one. It will have control of all athletics in the school. An executive committee of four, two students and two members of the faculty, will have complete charge of the finances, the writing for and the scheduling of games, the publicity, the advertising, and other details. The students on the committee will be the president and the secretary elected by the association. Coach Schultz and Principal Magee will be the faculty members. In case of a tie vote Supt. McDonald will decide. The committee will elect one of their number as treasurer.

After forming the association the students proceeded to the election of officers. Four candidates for president were nominated: Martin Lewis Jr., Eugene Martin, Eugene Yehle and Russell Woodward. Martin Lewis was elected over Eugene Martin. Lillian Carpenter was elected secretary by acclamation, having no opposition. Martin Lewis and Lillian Carpenter will be the student members of the executive committee.

The outlook for football is excellent. About twenty-five men answered the first call for football candidates Tuesday. Ten or fifteen took part in the light practice and signal work of last year. The rest are new to the game. Of the entire squad only about five have ever seen a football game. Much encouragement is felt, however, over the unusually large "crop" of freshmen.

Coach Schultz gave a short talk in which he outlined the work. The first practice will be held Monday afternoon. The first few days will be confined to learning the elements of football; handling, passing, kicking, and falling on the ball; tackling the dummy; learning the rules; etc.

If possible the first game will be played in Maryville in about two weeks. The second game will be at Bethany and a return game will be played here. Bethany has a very strong team. They lost only one game last year and will have almost the same team this year, providing their soldier boys get released from the militia. There are now at least four of their football team on the border. There will probably be eight games, four at home and four abroad. Opponents will be selected from the following schools: Bethany, Stanberry, Albany, Trenton, Tarkio and St Joseph Central.

Milk Distributing Business Controlled by Trusts, According to Findings of Department of Agriculture.

Special to The Democrat-Forum.

Washington, Sept. 15.—The milk distributing business in most of the large cities is in the hands of monopolies, according to the evidence in the hands of investigators from the department of agriculture. This information will probably result in a number of anti-trust suits against the milk trust.

REED TELLS ABOUT IT

UPHOLDS PASSAGE OF ADAMSON EIGHT-HOUR LAW.

COURSE WISEST METHOD

Senator Denies Congress Acted Under Coercion—Says Republicans Dodged Action.

James A. Reed had the following in Monday's St. Louis Republic about the Adamson eight-hour law:

"One of the most surprising conditions I have ever observed is the effort being made to create a false impression regarding the legislation passed for the purpose of averting a strike. It almost appears that some gentlemen really desire a strike, and are disappointed that action was taken preventing its consummation. These gentlemen go about stating that labor stood with pistols at the head of Congress demanding that Congress pass the eight-hour law, and that Congress in a cowardly and truculent manner yielded at the point of the pistol. They also undertake to load the entire responsibility for the threatened strike upon the railroad employes.

Says Roads Injected New Issues.

"The strike vote was carried by nearly 95 per cent in the affirmative. Notice of the result of the strike vote was given to the railway managements who stood firm, absolutely refusing to concede to anything.

"It thus was apparent that a strike was inevitable and would occur unless something was done to prevent it.

"At this stage of the proceedings the President, realizing that the country would suffer most while the men and the companies were conducting a warfare against each other, sent for the representatives of both sides and endeavored to compose the difficulties between them. The railway managements stoutly declared that they would not concede the eight-hour day, but that they would arbitrate the question of an eight-hour day provided a large number of other questions, which had been settled for years between the companies and their men, should be opened up and also arbitrated.

"In other words, the managements injected a lot of new questions into the controversy, and made it a condition of arbitration that these questions should also be reopened for consideration.

What Strike Would Have Meant.

"The condition that then confronted the President was this: While the railway managements and the railway employes were engaged in a war against each other, what was to become of the 100,000,000 American people who cannot live unless the highways of the country are kept open? The people in this case were the innocent bystanders, and it was on behalf of these innocent bystanders the President spoke.

"He realized, as every sensible man realizes, that the great damage of the strike would fall upon the men and women of the country who were in no manner concerned in the controversy.

"The President realized that a strike of ten days' duration would absolutely stop the march of our industrial and financial development. He knew more than this; that a strike of four or five days would cost railway companies, even if they won it, a large sum of money, that would equal any possible advance of wages to the men for four or five years' time, and that an industrial war, like every other kind of war, is in the long run a losing investment.

Denies Threats Forced Action.

"The President, therefore, appealed to Congress, not at the demand of the railway presidents holding pistols in their hands, not at the demand of the men holding pistols in their hands, but knowing that these two forces were determined upon a great industrial war, the greatest that ever threatened our country, or that ever threatened any country, and knowing that the effect of this war would be to bring indescribable hardships and suffering upon the country, and asked Congress to take the necessary steps to stop the strike.

Defends Eight-Hour Day.

"The house was literally on fire. The question was how could the fire be stopped in its incipiency. The President said, and I say, that the eight-hour day for men engaged in the hazardous business of railroading is a thing inevitable to come; that it is a part of the great tide of events that is now transpiring, and that in view of that situation we could afford to pass an eight-hour day law applicable to railroads just as we passed such a Rites for Burlington Junction Physician to Be Held at the Methodist Church.

The body of Dr. Charles Evans, a pioneer physician of Burlington Junction, who died early yesterday morning at the Noyes hospital in St. Joseph, was brought to the family home last night.

FRENCH, SERBS AND BRITISH ROUT BULGARIANS.

EXTEND POSITION ON SOMME FRONT

Germans Lose Series of Trenches Reputed to Be Impregnable—Greek Situation Unchanged.

Special to The Democrat-Forum.

Paris, Sept. 15.—The allied French, Serbian and British troops have won a sweeping victory over the Bulgarians on the Macedonian front, the war office announced today. The Serbians who routed the Bulgarians on the nine-mile front are now in hot pursuit of the defeated enemy.

In their advance the Serbs have occupied several important positions and succeeded in resuming their offensive.

While the Germans are still engaged in fruitless efforts to retake their lost positions, the French on the Somme front have been extending their position southeast of Combles and north of Peronne by capturing a series of German trenches. At Raucourt and at Clary, northwest of Peronne, the Germans launched another fierce counter attack.

British Take German Trenches.

London, Sept. 15.—Once more the British have pierced the German front at a point boasted to be the strongest, and have resumed their advance in the district south of Thiepval. On the Somme front the British have swept back the German defenders by the fury of their assault. The official statement announces the capture of a thousand yards of trenches southeast of Thiepval, including "Wunderwork," a position that the Germans had fortified until they believed it impregnable.

Bulgarians in Retreat.

Saloniki, Sept. 15.—The Serbians have taken from the Bulgarians positions at Malkanidjie, and the Bulgarians are in full retreat toward Florina.

Austrians Defeated.

London, Sept. 15.—A dispatch from Rome states that the Austrians were defeated by the Russians in a three-day battle, west of Mountkapul, in the Carpathians.

Attempt to Capture Thiepval.

Berlin, Sept. 15.—The German war office announced that the English troops made another attempt to capture the eGrman salient line at Thiepval but failed. In the official report it was admitted that the French had captured Leopriez Farm, near Combles.

The report on the Balkan operations states that the British troops were driven out of the trenches on the east bank of the Vardar river in Macedonia.

Dimitrakapoulos Refuses.

Athens, Sept. 15.—Dimitrakapoulos today informed the king that it was impossible to form a cabinet having any other policy than that of immediate participation in the war, and therefore begged to be relieved of the task. Friends of the king again advised him to turn once more to Venizelos. The question was taken under advisement.

British Capture Flora.

New York, Sept. 15.—Frederick Palmer with the British in France wires that Flora has been captured by the British. Flora is less than four miles south of Bapaume on the road between that important point and the German base and Ginchy.

Mrs. Flora Quinn has purchased the C. H. John property on South Buchanan street. The consideration was $2,000. Mrs. Quinn expects to move to the property about November 1.

THE NEWS FROM MAINE.

The meaning of the Maine election lies clear on the face of the returns.

In November, 1912, Woodrow Wilson received 51,113 votes for president, while Taft and Roosevelt combined received 74,998. In 1914 the Democratic candidate for governor, Curtis, received 62,039 votes, while the combined Republican and Progressive vote was 77,087. In each of these elections the Democrats were victorious on account of the division of the opposition. On Monday the Democratic vote for governor was 66,547, while the Republican vote—there being no Progressive ticket in the field—was 79,902.

This shows a gain in the Democratic vote of 6.7 per cent over 1914 and 23 per cent over 1912, while the Republican vote of Monday was but 3.6 per cent greater than the Republican-Progressive vote of 1914 and 6 per cent greater than that of 1912.

To put it another way: Had the vote against the Democratic candidates not been divided in 1912 and in 1914, Maine would have gone Republican by 23,885 votes in the former year, 15,048 in the latter and but 13,355 on Monday. This is a loss of 44 per cent of the excess of the opposition vote over that of the Democracy in the four years.

The significant facts in this world are facts of tendency, and the tendencies revealed by an analysis of the Maine vote of Monday are such as all Democrats rejoice in. We have been told by the opposition press that the Democracy was only a favorite of fortune, enjoying a windfall of temporary success through the division of the opposition. But the result in Maine shows that in a stronghold of granite-ribbed Republicanism the Democratic party has gained 23 per cent in its total vote in four years and cut down the opposition's lead by 44 per cent.

This embodies the popular verdict of a Republican state upon the Wilson administration, with its three and one-half years of unprecedented activity in the legislative field and its struggle with problems of unique difficulty and danger in the domain of foreign affairs. The Democrats are asking with no uncertain voice: "O, have you heard the news from Maine?"—St. Louis Republic.

JOHNSON WITH SHOE COMPANY

Former Maryville Resident of Concern at Fort Dodge, Ia.—To Make 600 Pairs Daily.

J. C. Johnson, who is well known in Maryville, is now connected with the Johnson-Baird Shoe company of Fort Dodge, Ia., being president of that concern. The company will employ 350 people and will make 600 pairs of shoes a day by December.

The following is from a paper at Fort Dodge:

"J. C. Johnson of the new company this morning declared that eighteen men will handle the Fort Dodge product in a territory west from Lake Michigan to the Pacific Ocean. Every state west of the east border of Illinois and including the states to the south will be covered. The traveling men who will represent the concern are between 30 and 36 years of age.

"Fifty people are now working various parts of the plant, making up the sample lines and running through about 2,000 pairs of shoes for the stockroom. As soon as the traveling men start out, the production will be increased as fast as the orders come in.

"With but few exceptions, the former operatives in the plant will return to work for the new company.

"The sample line has been kept down to 100 different patterns and grades of shoes. In addition to the staple lines the company will make, several fancy lines will be put on. Mr. Johnson was told by some shoe retailers along State street in Chicago that samples of some of the "dressy" shoes to be made compare very favorably with other lines made.

"Perhaps few persons realize the extensive territory that is to be covered by this company. Shoes made in Fort Dodge will be sold west of the Mississippi to California and from the Great Lakes on the north to the gulf on the south. Illinois and Michigan will also be covered.

The meeting last night was the opening gun in a big campaign for business. The Johnson-Baird company has been operating the plant since June 6 and has manufactured samples of their products to supply their salesmen. The company is now ready to get the business and judging by the enthusiasm displayed at last night's meeting Mr. Business will be got."

A LETTER OF THANKS

J. L. Hepburn of Hopkins Wishes to Thank His Friends for Postal Card Shower.

Col. James L. Hepburn of near Hopkins celebrated his seventy-fifth birthday anniversary Tuesday. His friends in Maryville and over the county gave him a postcard shower to wish him many happy returns of the day. Mr. and Mrs. Hepburn are planning a trip east, including a visit with their son, the Rev. Henry Hepburn, who fills the pulpit of one of the prominent Presbyterian churches of Chicago.

The following letter is from Col. Hepburn:

To The Democrat-Forum:

I take this mode of thanking my many friends for so kindly remembering me on my seventy-eighth birthday.

To say that I was surprised and overwhelmed would be putting it very mildly, as I had never thought of any such thing.

I might just add with the poets: "Old friends are the greatest blessings of one's later years." Of all the best things upon earth, I hold that a faithful friend is the best, and a true friend is forever a friend."

It is my sincere desire in the future to hold what friends I undoubtedly have and to make more new friends. Yours very truly, voice to a conversational tone he said, turning to the press stand:

"Take down the date, Mr. Reporter, and you will see that some who are here tonight will pass into eternity before this meeting is over. The casket is built and the shroud cut for some of you here right now. No, I don't want to scare anybody, but I want to impress upon you the need of accepting Christ.

Urges Return to God.

"Men in Maryville are living just outside the kingdom, who will be converted in this meeting or lost forever. It's up to the Christian folks to get them lined up for God. Yet, some of you who profess Christ live so that others say, 'well, if that is a sample of Christianity, I don't want any of it.' That does the most harm to Christ's work.

"Some of you can't save souls because you don't pay your debts. Others walk to prayer meeting five miles and you don't walk three steps to pay your butcher. Some of you women can't sing in the choir because you won't pay your dentist for your last set of false teeth.

"You who are outside are foolish to trifle with your immortal interests. Many a fool called an agnostic is trying to live his religion upon his own intellect. It can't be done. Let's have a Pentecost and save 3,000 souls in one day in Maryville. It could be done if Christians would do their share.

"A little boy asked a big lawyer to go to heaven during a revival meeting. The lawyer declined the boy's invitation to go forward to be saved. 'Well, go to hell, then,' said the boy. The next day a minister tried to apologize to the lawyer for the boy's action. The lawyer refused to listen to the minister, admitted the boy had stirred him to depths and gave himself to Christ.

"Go After Big Fish."

"Don't be afraid to go after the big fish. A six-cylinder man ought to be six cylinders for Christ. Bankers, lawyers, doctors, business men, all ought to be lined up for God for their own sakes and influence they can wield over others. It takes a big man to confess in God; any jackass can knock him.

"The big man who denies God is unfaithful to his age. The woman of influence who hasn't God uppermost is in the hands of the devil.

The evangelist pictured the conversion of some of the greatest religious characters in the world, Moody, Gipsy Smith, Sunday, McCauley, Trotter, Trotter, Spurgeon, Lew Wallace, Henry W. Grady and a number of others.

"Follow God if you would be great," was one of his closing appeals.

Mrs. Scoville sang "Fishers of Men" apropos the sermon before the evangelist started speaking. Director Forsythe sang a song of his own composition, bith words and music, "Win the One Next to You." Prayer was offered by Rev. Miller of Maryville.

Reports of Advertising.

Reports were made by Rev. Hale of Maryville and Rev. Waldraven and Mr. Parker of the Scoville party of the results of an extensive advertising trip yesterday. Three auto parties distributed literature over different routes, made speeches at schools and in the streets of surrounding towns and otherwise advertised the revival. At Hopkins Parker sang a solo at the high school and he and Ellis Cook of Maryville made speeches at the horse show and picnic.

In the parties were: G. L. Wilfley, L. M. Hale, Dan R. Baker, O. C. Hanna, Frank Reavis, J. F. Cook, O. L. Holmes, Mrs. Flora Quinn, Mrs. Mary A. Jones, Dr. K. R. Malotte, Miss Helen Burris, Helen Pierpoint, Mrs. D. D. Miller, Miss Laura White, Miss Ina Campbell, Lou D. Parker, Ellis Cook, A. L. Nash, Henry Westfall, the Rev. Mr. Waldraven, Ed Gray, Mrs. Guy Haller, Miss Ruth Matter, Mrs. Jones, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Moberly. They visited Wilcox, Burlington Junction, Quitman, Skidmore, Pickering, Hopkins, Gaynor, Orrsburg, Parnell, Ravenwood, Maitland, Barnard and Arkoe and more than thirty country schools.

NOTES OF REVIVAL.

Dr. Scoville will preach at 8:15.

Services start at 7:30.

Special music nightly.

Men's Bible class night tonight.

Mrs. Scoville will meet high school girls after school today.

Men and boys' mass meeting and women and girls' mass meeting 3 p. m. Sunday, tent and Baptist church.

S. D. Harlan of Skidmore was on the platform with local pastors at the services last night.

The baseball tournament next week will be opened by Dr. Scoville when he throws the first ball. The Scoville quartette will sing and the Scoville party will root for Maryville.

Several hundred have promised Extension Secretary Parker to do personal work when Dr. Scoville gives the invitation for trail hitters.

"Our motto: Be square; don't make excuses; make good." These words are written on a huge banner stretched across the tent over the choir loft. It was first used by Mr. Parker in the Emporia, Kas., campaign.

The tent tabernacle is today being decorated with charts and banners that are used in connection with the Scoville campaigns.

Pickering was represented by a good sized delegation last night. Folks from Ravenwood, Burlington Junction, Graham, Warrensburg, Wilcox, Harmony, Barnard, Lincoln, Neb., Bolckow, St. Joseph, Eureka Springs, Ark., and Topeka, Kas., were in the audience.

The Christian church folks made a big showing on their night last night. Not much difference in size of the three local delegations. The Methodists Tuesday night, Baptists Wednesday night and Christians last night all appeared in about the same numbers.

"Why don't you put on your winter clothes?" Dr. Scoville asked the crowd. "I got mine on. If you haven't put on yours you can just sit and shiver."

The crowd was mightily pleased last night when upon request of Director Forsythe, 13-year-old Sterril Bishop, secretary of the Children's Booster club, sang the chorus, "Glory for Me." The clear soprano voice of the little girl could be heard easily to the farthest point in the tent tabernacle.

HERE FROM "ALASKA."

What a Grant City Paper Has to Say About Col. Virgil Keene of This City.

Virgil Keene, the princely salesman of George D. Barnard & Co., of St. Louis, came over from his home in Maryville last week and told the boys in the courthouse a few of his latest stories. This was Virgil's first visit here since last February, so long ago that the boys had almost forgotten what a good story teller was like. The report had preceded Virgil to the effect that he had been on the sick list was why he had not been here. But come to find out he was enjoying the sleeping room Mrs. Keene had added to their already commodious residence while Mr. Keene was absent. Virgil calls it Mrs. Keene's Alaska resort, and says that she enjoys it so much that she even spends the winter months in "Alaska" while he spends the winter south of the Mason and Dixon line, in Georgia, as Mr. Keene calls the warmer apartments of his home. Mr. Keene made his first visit to Grant City in the early '70s, and has at intervals visited the city ever since. The writer had missed Mr. Keene and would have written him, after we heard he was sick had we been sure his address was the same as it now is.—Grant City Tribune.

Mr. Wainwright, the new president, has called a meeting of the new board of directors to be held in Maryville next Tuesday for the purpose of designating the official route. Arrangements for the immediate marking of the highway will also be made.

The markers for the road were chosen this morning. The design selected is a yellow band painted on the telephone pole with a black stencilled letter S just above it.

The marking of the highway will be handled by the towns along the route, each town being responsible for the markers half the way to the next town in each direction along the highway.

J. H. Baker of Bedford, one of the directors, offered as a suggestion that the new Saints' Highway connect at Bedford with the new route which is being laid out to the northern Iowa lake district, known as the Okoboji Short Line, thus offering a direct route to that part of the country from Kansas City, St. Joseph and other southern points.

No definite action was taken on the matter, but all of the delegates were favorably impressed, thus insuring a hearing at some future time.

The delegates present at the meeting were: Elliott Hurd, Sharpsburg, Ia., J. A. George, Lenox, Ia., S. E. Wainwright, Lenox; J. H. Baker, Frank Dunning, W. H. Lake and Arthur Leet, Bedford, Ia.; C. BOYS AND MEN AT LUNCH

Women of Methodist and Christian Churches Serve Meal, Aiding in Evangelistic Campaign.

Sixty-four men and seventy-six high school boys met at noonday luncheon today in connection with the Charles Reign Scoville evangelistic campaign.

The men convened at the First Methodist church and the boys at the Christian church. The women of the respective churches served the luncheons. At both places the women were roundly cheered for their efforts.

Dr. Scoville talked at the men's meeting, outlining the plans of the campaign. Another men's meeting will be held at the Baptist church next Wednesday. Chairmen were named from each church to carry out the campaign for converts.

The high school boys led by Superintendent J. M. McDonald enlivened their luncheon with a number of yells. Talks were made by Floyd F. Miles, publicity manager of the Scoville party, Superintendent McDonald and Musical Director Forsythe of the Scoville company. Another meeting will be held next week.

Dr. Scoville addressed the state normal school students at assembly this forenoon.

"You need brain, heart and muscle," said the evangelist in the serious side of his message. Then he caused a big laugh by saying:

"Some fellows have too much heart. For instance, the man who gets married four or five times has a heart as big as a tub but no brains."

The evangelist was warmly applauded and Mr. Forsythe and Mrs. Arlene Dux Scoville who sang solos were encored. Dr. Thomas of Maryville accompanied for Mrs. Scoville. President Ira Richardson of the Normal presided.

Two school districts in Worth county, adjacent to Grant City, have voted to discontinue their schools and send the pupils to the Grant City school. As the taxation valuation in one of these districts is less than $50,000 the state pays the tuition of the pupils, while the local tax is used for their transportation. The other district, having a valuation of more than $50,000, applies the school tax upon the children's tuition and allows the children to provide for their own transportation.

Obituary.

John Jacob Ambrose opened his bright brown eyes to the dawn of life near Atlanta, Neb., on the fifteenth day of September, 1892, and closed them to rest from all labors at 9:32 p. m., September 9, 1916, in Longmont, Col., where he had come seeking health and strength, which he had lost while attending the Missouri State Agricultural college at Columbia.

In May, 1915, just two days before commencement, he was suddenly stricken from causes unknown to him, but which at once developed into the great plague which carried him out from us into the everlasting arms of God.

On entering manhood he accepted Jesus Christ as his Savior and as the one man above all others who should be his ideal, hence his noble life filled with Christian graces. He was a lover of the church, especially the Christian congregation at Arkoe, Mo., where he held his membership.

He suffered much but with extraordinary patience. In the midst of his last day of indescribable agony, and as if to give him more strength and joy through his suffering, the Heavenly Father drew him aside for a few moments and closed his eyes to the world, opening them in another, where he said were the most wonderful and beautiful things, which he was unable to tell about, they were so great.

He was thoughtful and grateful for everything done for him, so much so that he told us to thank every one who had brought him flowers and given him auto rides, yea, every kind deed shown.

He planned and talked much of his "over there" and would forget his agony by thinking of the beautiful songs he loved, which he called "little prayers put to music."

His farewell words were given to his mother and father and expressed his gratitude for their loving, tender, watchful care over him. He said they need not regret anything for they had done all they could for him. He pointed out also that this beautiful land seen under the veil had been promised him and that it would be all right when Jesus comes, and mother and friends are coming, too. He waved us farewell and departed in the presence of mother, father, his pastor and his physician and other friends. A noble youth is fallen—a sweet spirit has taken its flight.

Good-bye, John. Rest in peace in that most beautiful place shown thee. Yea, rest and sleep in Jesus. Father, mother, you four sisters and three brothers, be ye comforted that soon we shall all meet again.

TOOK STRAW VOTES.

Albany Man Finds Wilson's Strength to Be Far in the Lead.

On his recent trip to Savannah and Barnard Elder J. D. McClure decided he would find out the political opinion of the men in his coach, and the result in the two straw votes taken showed Wilson's strength to be far in the lead. In the smoker between Albany and St. Joseph there were forty men, and the result of the vote taken there was 23 favoring Wilson's reelection, 10 for Hughes, 3 were Socialists and 3 declared they would never vote again until Bryan was a candidate. Of the twenty-three who favored Wilson, five were Republicans and eight were from Iowa.

Going from Savannah to Barnard, Elder McClure had a young man make a poll of the smoking coach in which there were forty-seven men. Of this number 27 declared themselves for Wilson, 11 for Hughes, 3 were Socialists and the remainder were unnaturalized railroad men.—Albany Ledger.

law applicable to all government employes and applicable to all men who work for those who have government contracts.

"Moreover, when the eight-hour day was extended to the railroads it was not like the passage of such an act applicable to private interests. The railways are public highways and if certain gentlemen in this country do not know it, it is time that the fact should be known that the public interest is paramount and the public interest must be guarded.

Wilson Guarded Public Interest.

"The public interest in this case was the thing the President sought to guard, for the public interest demanded there should be no strike, and I remark now that the public interest demands that there shall never be in this country a great railway strike.

"Now, what was done? We passed the eight-hour law. It is complained that we provided no permanent plan for the settlement of disputes. The reason no permanent plan was evolved was because if we stopped the strike we had to have the law effected by September 3. We had no time to carefully consider and work out a measure which would be just to all parties and which would result in ending railway strikes. But we took pains to see to it that any further such legislation should be provided.

Further Legislation Probable.

"The law we passed does not become effective until January 1, 1917. Congress will again convene early in December so that we would have thirty days before this law becomes effective in which to give further consideration to the whole question. Besides, the President will probably within a few days appoint the commission which is to investigate the claims of the men and to report to Congress the exact conditions which exist.

"Now, summing it all up, what have we done? The strike has been prevented. If we had undertaken to take time to have evolved an elaborate scheme for the prevention of strikes in the future, the strike would have been upon us, and the ccountry would have then been damaged.

"Let those who cavil and criticise ask themselves this one question. Did they want the strike, or did they not want it? Let them ask themselves whether they prefer the present conditions, in which everyone continues to do business, and the wheels of every factory hum, and the people go about their business, or whether they prefer to stand out and have a fight that would have brought ruin to the country?

Says Republicans Dodged Action.

"Let me add a concluding sentence. The Republicans in the senate have been looking for an issue for months. Likewise, Mr. Hughes has been hunting for one; yet when this strike problem was presented to the senate, what happened? The Republican caucus met. They met for the purpose of devising a plan that would be best for their party. They deliberated for a half day, and when they got through with their deliberations they had no plan to suggest, no affirmative action of any kind to submit.

"They simply sat back and took the position: 'Let the house burn. The Democrats are in charge of the fire department. Let them take the responsibility. We will suggest nothing, and we will do nothing.' If we Democrats had done just what the Republicans did, we would today be without a single railway train moving in the United States.

"I say that the action of President Wilson in averting this strike entitles him to the commendation and reverent love of every man, woman and child in the United States."

TRIBUTE TO THOMAS PAINE

Dudley Reid, Former Maryville Resident, Contributes Poem to Lyons (N. Y.) Republican.

"A Perfect Man," a tribute to Thomas Paine written by Dudley Reid, appeared as a special contribution in the ninety-fifth anniversary edition of the Lyons (N. Y.) Republican, August 3, 1916.

This poem was written by Mr. Reid seven years ago, and has been reproduced in nearly every state in the union. It is a splendid attempt on the part of the poet to give Mr. Paine the place that he has been denied for so many years in the memories and hearts of his countrymen.

It has a special appeal to the maimed and the helpless, as it shows that in spite of physical weakness Thomas Paine filled his place in the world and rendered invaluable service in the Revolutionary cause.

Mr. Reid is well known in Maryville, having been at one time editor of the Maryville Forum. He is now a resident of Gilman City, Mo., and is postmaster there.

Lights Fail at Dance.

An amusing incident of the dance given by Mrs. Will Foster of this city at Conception Junction Wednesday night occurred when the failure of the electric lights was turned into a guessing contest. When the lights went out, Mrs. Foster offered a prize to the one guessing nearest the time they would be out. A Maryville young man won, with the guess of one hour and fifteen minutes. A number of people from this city attended the dance.
